BEST PRACTICE OF ZOOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Name of the Best Practice:

Blood donation, blood grouping and Hemoglobin estimation camp.

Objectives:

To encourage blood donation and prepare youth as peer educators of change both among youth as well as society at large by developing their skills on leadership, advocacy, communication and team building

Needs identified:

Blood donors save lives of thousands of needy people and Blood is needed by women with complications during pregnancy and childbirth, children with severe anaemia, often resulting from malaria or malnutrition, accident victims and surgical and cancer patients. There is no substitute for human blood hence more donors are desperately needed. The Zoology department and Red ribbon club of our college supports voluntary blood donation without compensation. Regular donors are the basis of a safe and sustainable distribution system of blood products, providing blood to those who need it. A safe and reliable blood donor system offers important support for health services.

Practice: It is a unique programme conducted by the Zoology department every year in association with Red Ribbon club. The blood banks are invited during the year with prior approval and organize the camp. They will provide all the facility to organize the camp and provide juice and fruits to the donors. Apart from that the institution provides food to all the donors and staffs. In the camp maximum all the students will get their blood group, weight checked and women students will also get their Hb% checked. Those who are fit to donate blood will voluntarily donate blood without any compensation. Approximately in every camp 40 to 50 students will donate the blood and helps in saving lives.

Evidence of Success:

This is a community-based Practices for Fostering Community Responsibility. Large number of students involved by connecting towards society, leading to breeding of values and ethics. Every year the percentage of participation in the blood donation will increase and students are eager to donate blood.

Resources:

Red cross society is engaged for technical assistance. They will provide all the technical manpower to organize the camp.
